WOUNDED MEN ATTACK EACH OTHER IN AMBULANCE

Detectives Attacked by All Belligerents When They Make Effort to Stop the Row-Some Wounded Escape.

Me in Mustration of the cheapness Me in the Pallan quarter, one del-r but to a fight in front of No. 156 Sett street in which three men were belly wounded that all may die and several others bear the marks to-lay of keen stilettee and heavy clubs. The feeling was so intense that two if the more seriously wounded men. ing put side by side in an amwience, tore their bandages off and went at each other again, using the inves of which they had not been de-grived. They were prevented from tilling each other only by the interseveral policemen, who About twenty Italians and Sicilians ere in the courtyard of the tenement at No. 124 Mott street, when an argu-ment arose over a dollar bill. All be-came involved and knives were drawn. Detectives Green and Sullivan were not far away and heard the row. They ran into the yard and found two men lying wounded on the ground. The others were still fighting. Green and Sullivan shouted to them to stop, and the Stalians, recognizing them as detectives, made common cause and atat bay with their revolvers while they w their whistles for help.

Several Arrests Made. With the arrival of reinforcements veral arrests were made, and Joseph applitance, of No. 124 Mott street, and awater Malta, of the same address, ore carried to the Mulberry street

An ambulance arrived from St. Vincent's Hospital and Malta and Repolitade were put in it after being attended by the surgeon, Dr. O Leary.

The surgeon then went back into the station to attend Barboro Di Luchi, who had also been badly slashed. While he was patching up Di Luchi a row was heard outside, and the police ran out to find Malta and Nopolitano, with their bandages torn off, trying to kill each siter in the ambulance. Two policemen rode in the ambulance to the hospital to keep the men apart. Both will probably die.
